

Paris (s. Rose) Miles-Brenden

Traditional Knowledge versus Epistemic Knowledge

May 23rd, 2024

12:29 pm

There are certain thing(s) which within logic will only make sense given the supposition of a base system of understanding, - that of which i.e. 'God is a ghost' - and that of 'God is a ghost' - of mind, and of the transposition of a layer of understanding and communication.... for instance in a base-18/5, or in a monoautmnl basis, of the 'then 'There is no creator, but the ghost.' - or - 'A ghost created the world.' - through a -/, of a channel.